2. I have two long horns above my eyes and one on my nose. Because I weigh over 12,000 pounds, some people think I look like a huge rhinoceros with a shield behind its head.

3. I have a duckbill and make a deep, bellowing sound like a tuba. My kind live in colonies so that some of us can hunt for food while others baby-sit the nests.

4. I walk on two big legs, swing a long, thick tail, and dangle two tiny arms. The long, gleaming teeth in my huge head tell you I am the largest meat-eating animal of all time!

5. I may be small, but my long, thin legs have earned me the name of "speedy thief," and my clawed hands and feet make me one of the most dangerous meat eaters around.

6. I have pebbly skin and a toothless, spoon-shaped beak that is perfect for eating plants. The long crest on the top of my head slopes backwards, and I like to travel in a herd.
